Old and New - Together for Progress

The NSU campus presented a curious blend of old and new. From the stately columns of the Bullard mansion to the Gothic grandeur of Caldwell Hall, the campus echoed its past. More modern structures, such as the Recreation Complex, the Field House, and the Student Union, and the modernization steps taken for the Fine Arts Building in 1981 were marks of NSU's progress toward the future.

Natchitoches Home Away From Home

Quiet, narrow streets, tall oaks, and the gentle Cane River worked together to provide a peaceful backdrop for life at NSU. Founded in 1714, Natchitoches had grown by 1981 to a city of approximately 21,000 citizens. A small, but growing community, Natchitoches supported the NSU Demons through the years with concerts on the riverbank, homecoming dances and parades downtown, and crowds for home football games.

NSU Smorgasbord

The NSU Student Services office offered three meal plans for students living on the Natchitoches campus. The 5-day and 7-day meal plans provided for three meals a day in Iberville Cafeteria. Steak nights, midnight breakfasts, picnic dinners, and other special activities added variety to the menu. Students buying variable meal tickets were able to eat at Iberville Cafeteria, the Student Union, or the Recreation Complex Snack Bar. The dining facilities were the center of social life for Northwestern Students.

How to Avoid Boredom - Nighttime

When students found free time after spending the afternoon playing, they looked to the Natchitoches night life to provide entertainment. Although many students were fond of complaining about the lack of evening entertainment, there was usually some activity worth staying up for. Sporting events and concerts were popular and heavily attended, but when no such events were planned, many NSU students found themselves at one of the lounges or discos in the area.

Is This the Real World?

Northwestern was not a sterile laboratory. It was a place where students took their classroom learning and applied it to the real world. NSU students spent each day in contact with each other, and thus they learned to communicate. They spent each day in exploration, and thus they learned to discover. They spent each day in control, and thus they learned to be confident.

Through four years of exploration, Northwestern students found places to go. NSU was only a stopping place on the way to a future, but the time spent here was important because the NSU student learned to communicate ... to discover ... to be confident. But above all, he learned to learn.

State Fair — A Week of Demon Spirit

Northwestern State University students participated, beginning October 13, in week long activities leading to the annual TECH football game at State Fair Stadium in Shreveport. State Fair activities began Monday with State Fair Saloon, a western-style party, and a midnight breakfast in Iberville Dining Hall. Tuesday's schedule included Cheerleader Day in the dining hall and a "Meet the Demons" party at the NSU Recreation Complex. The annual football game between NSU and TECH SGA teams was held Wednesday in Ruston. Thursday was designated Demon colors T-shirt Day, and a mini rally was held at the Cane River Company.

Demons Celebrate Homecoming

E V E N T S

NSU's ninety-sixth Homecoming climaxed on November 8 when the Demons squared off against the Nicholls State Colonels. The Demons' victory on Saturday was in keeping with a week full of success.

The week's activities included an SGA sponsored Blood Drive on Tuesday. A unique and refreshing concert and slide presentation, "I Saw The Wind," sponsored by SUGB, took place on Wednesday. Thursday was highlighted by a presentation on psychic phenomena that was conducted by Ed and Lorraine Warren and included a showing of the motion picture "The Amityville Horror." As the weekend arrived, students were bombarded with activities in which they could participate. Friday's events included fishing, golf, and tennis tournaments, one- and five-mile fun runs, and a banner parade which presented the Queen and her court and ended with a dance on the riverfront.

Saturday dawned clear and unseasonably warm to offer perfect weather for the 2:00 p.m. game. Pre-game activities included a performance of the NSU Demon Marching Band and the Old Timers Band. The Queen and her court and NSU Hall of Fame members were presented at half-time.

The week ended Saturday night with an Alumni-sponsored dance featuring formers of the Northwestern stage band, the Demonaires, and past and present members of the NSU Entertainers.

Row 3: Roger Rolon, Mairus McFarland, Anna Cloutier, Danny Seymour, Inside View co-chairman.

Inside View sessions were conducted June 25-27, July 9-11, and July 20-22 to give new students an opportunity to become acquainted with university life and to participate in advance registration for the fall semester. Student leaders at Northwestern served as counselors for Inside View, a program designed to allow freshmen not only to select fall classes and pre-register, but also to examine educational and vocational interests and goals and to become acquainted with NSU's academic programs and extra-curricular activities. Inside View sessions included placement testing, a parents' program, social activities, campus tours, academic information, registration for the fall semester, and an introduction to residence hall life.

Cotton Is King at Folk Festival

The unique multi-cultural heritage of North-Central Louisiana was emphasized at the first Natchitoches Folk Festival June 28-29, 1980 in Prather Coliseum at Northwestern State University. A wide variety of traditional music, crafts and ethnic foods was presented during the event sponsored by the Louisiana Folklife Center at NSU to give the public an insight into the many cultures that have made this region so historically rich. In addition to the musical programs, exhibits and demonstrations of ethnic foods, dress, arts and crafts, the festival focused attention on the cotton industry.

Ashley Montagu

March 12, 1980

Ashley Montagu, the famed anthropologist who wrote the book, "The Elephant Man: A Study in Human Dignity," spoke March 12, 1980 at Northwestern State University. Montagu's book provided the inspiration for "The Elephant Man," the overwhelming Broadway favorite of 1979 which earned the New York stage production the Tony Award for "best play" and the New York Drama Critics Circle Award. In his popular book, Montagu recounts the life of John Merrick, who from childhood was grotesquely deformed and spent most of his short life as a circus freak, then surprisingly was taken up by Victorian England drawing room society. The prominent anthropologist was the author of more than forty books.

Gary Snyder

April 14-18, 1980

Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Gary Snyder, considered one of the outstanding contemporary American writers, participated in a four-day residency at Northwestern State University. Snyder, who won the Pulitzer Prize in 1974 for a volume of poetry entitled "Turtle Island," served in residence at Northwestern through a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts and sponsorship by the NSU Distinguished Lecture Series. Snyder's first presentation was on Monday, April 14, when he lectured on "Wilderness and Chinese Thought," and on Tuesday he spoke on "Zen Practice." Two sessions with Snyder occurred on Thursday. He lectured on "Buddhist Thought and Creativity" and conducted a workshop on creative writing.

Richard Scammon

September 15, 1980

Dr. Richard M. Scammon, director of the Elections Research Center in Washington, D.C., examined the candidates, campaigns and effects of the 1980 presidential election on September 15 when he opened the 1980 Fall Semester Distinguished Lecture Series at Northwestern State University. Parties, Personalities, and programs involved in the November 4 elections were discussed during the address, which was followed by a question and answer session. The opening speaker in the Distinguished Lecture Series had been director of the Elections Research Center since 1955, except for a four-year leave to serve as director of the U.S. Bureau of the Census. Scammon was chief of the U.S. Department of State's Division of Research for Western Europe for seven years before being named Elections Research Center director. The Elections Research Center's first and only director, Scammon was nationally recognized as an elections expert with considerable influence on Washington newsmen and political bosses who relied on his conclusions.

John Houseman

November 10, 1980

John Houseman, an Academy Award-winning actor who received acclaim for his performance as the stern Professor Kingsfield in movie and television productions of "The Paper Chase", spoke on November 10 at Northwestern State University. Houseman's address to students, faculty and staff members and the general public was held in Northwestern's Prather Coliseum. The appearance by the actor and author was sponsored by the university's Distinguished Lecture Series.

His portrayal of Professor Kingsfield in the movie "The Paper Chase" won Houseman the Academy Award for best supporting actor in 1973. He enjoyed similar success when the television version of the drama was later aired over CBS-TV. Houseman was the first Academy Award-winning actor to appear on the Distinguished Lecture Series program at Northwestern. Most familiar on stage, Houseman did not adapt his career to include films until late in his life.

Caroline Bird

November 18, 1980

Feminist Caroline Bird, one of the nation's leading authorities on economic problems and opportunities of women, spoke on November 18 in Prather Coliseum at Northwestern State University. Her address, which was opened to the public without charge, was sponsored by the Distinguished Lecture Series in conjunction with the Women's Awareness Week observance at Northwestern.

Ms. Bird was the author of several books, including "Born Female: The High Cost of Keeping Women Down," "Everything A Woman Needs to Know to Get Paid What She's Worth" and "The Two-Paycheck Marriage." Her popularity as a leading feminist and author soared after "Born Free" was published in 1968. After that time, she was a frequent lecturer on topics concerning women and money and the future of women.

Ms. Bird's 1973 book, "Everything A Woman Needs to Know to Get Paid What She's Worth," was serialized in a leading women's magazine and by newspapers across the country. "The Two-Paycheck Marriage" was one of the most acclaimed books of 1979. Ms. Bird's book, "The Invisible Scar: The Great Depression and What It Did to American Life From Then to Now," was listed by the American Library Association as one of the most important books of 1966. She was also the author of "The Crowding Syndrome: Learning to Live With Too Much and Too Many."

Northwestern's distinguished lecturer was the official historian for the National Women's Conference at Houston and served as chief writer for "The Spirit of Houston," the official report of the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year.

Tashi

March 9, 1980

Tashi, an instrumental group of varying dimensions, appeared in concert Sunday, March 9 at Northwestern State University. The performance was sponsored by the NSU Artist Series. Dr. Edward Rath, associate professor of piano in the university's Department of Music and Artist Series chairman, coordinated the program. Tashi was comprised of a string quartet and Richard Stoltzman, a popular New York musical celebrity whose instrument was the clarinet. The concert featured works by Mozart, Stravinsky and Douglas. Following the concert, the artists were honored at a reception hosted by Alpha Lambda Delta honor society at Northwestern.

Frederick Fine Arts Center Auditorium. The appearance by the HSPVA Concert Dancers was sponsored by the NSU Artist Series.

The Houston HSPVA Concert Dancers was a company of some thirty dancers whose performance at Northwestern encompassed many styles of dance.

The High School for the Performing and Visual Arts was created in 1971 and had become a magnet for professional artists, and in the area of dance, the school had become the fortunate recipient of residencies and visits by well-known artists.

The Concert Dancers had appeared on numerous university campuses throughout Texas and in 1976 were the featured company at the National Dance Association in Kansas City, MO.

Following the performance, both the dancers and the audience were entertained at a tea in the Student Union.

Piedmont Chamber Orchestra

October 28, 1980

The Northwestern State University Artist Series opened its 1980-81 season on October 28 with a concert performance by the nationally-acclaimed Piedmont Chamber Orchestra of North Carolina. Dr. George Trautwein, the music director and conductor of the Tucson Symphony, was the guest conductor for the NSU Artist Series concert which was held at the First Baptist Church of Natchitoches. Appearing as clarinet soloist was Robert Listokin, clarinetist for both the Piedmont Chamber Orchestra and the internationally-known Clarion Wind Quintet.

The Piedmont Chamber Orchestra was a professional ensemble incorporating faculty artists from the North Carolina School of the Arts. The musical excellence of the orchestra was recognized nationally in performances at the Kennedy Center, the Lincoln Center and at Carnegie Hall. The twenty-two member orchestra was supported by the National Endowment for the Arts and the North Carolina School of the Arts Foundation.

The Piedmont Chamber Orchestra featured several outstanding musicians, including concert mistress Elaine Richey, winner of the prestigious Naumberg Competition, Sally Peck, solo violist, formerly principal violist of the Utah Symphony; Robert Marsh, cello, formerly principal cellist of the Atlanta, Cincinnati and Dallas Symphonies; Lynn Peters, bass, formerly with the Detroit Symphony; and Emile Simoned, violist, formerly with the Detroit Symphony, New York String Sextet and the Claremont Quartet.

Clara Trio November 16, 1980

The Clara Trio from the University of Arkansas presented a concert of music by female composers Sunday, November 16, to open the Women's Awareness Week observance at Northwestern State University. The concert, sponsored by the NSU Artist Series, was held in the former trade school building on the Northwestern campus.

The popular trio, formed in 1977, featured Dr. Barbara Jackson on violin, Beatriz Pilapil at the piano and Linda Marquardt on the cello. Their concert at Northwestern included Elizabeth Jacquet de La Guerre's "Sonata No. 2 in D Major," Lili Boulanger's "Nocturne, for Violin and Piano," Violet Balzer's "Trio No. 1" and "Trio in G Minor, Op. 17" by Clara Wieck Schumann, the composer for whom the group was named.

Miss Pilapil, the trio's pianist, had a diploma in piano from the Conservatory of Music of the University of the Philippines and was the first recipient of the Master of Music degree from the University of Arkansas. A professor of music at the University of Arkansas, Miss Pilapil had performed as a soloist and recitalist with symphony orchestras in Missouri, Louisiana, Alabama, and Arkansas. Dr. Jackson, the violinist for the group, held a master's degree from the Eastman School of Music and a doctorate from Stanford University. A professor of music history, she had performed in the region as a baroque violinist as well as on the modern instrument. As the trio's cellist, Miss Marquardt was also a member of the Arkansas Chamber Ensemble. She had performed with orchestras in California, Washington and Arkansas and had been active for many years organizing and performing in community chamber recitals in Washington, Massachusetts and Arkansas.

Mr. and Miss NSU

Karen Murphy

Jim Hoops

Karen Murphy, a pre-medicine major, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Murphy of Natchitoches. She was a graduate of Natchitoches Central High School. Miss Murphy was active in the Student Government Association, having served as both senator-at-large and secretary. A member of the Purple Jackets Service organization and Phi Mu Fraternity, Miss Murphy was elected as a member of Northwestern's 1980 Homecoming Court and 1979 State Fair Court. She competed in two Lady of the Bracelet pageants, winning First Runner-Up in 1979, and the talent award and Fourth Runner-Up in 1980. Miss Murphy was also listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Jim Hoops, a graduate of Patrick Henry High School in Deshler, Ohio, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hoops. A business administration major with emphasis in computer science, Hoops was a starting forward on the NSU Demon basketball team, president of Blue Key Honor Fraternity and director of student rights for the Student Government Association. As a junior, Hoops was a senator-at-large in the SGA. He also held membership in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Fellowship of Christian Students and the Young Republicans, and was listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

The 1980's promise to be the most memorable decade of Northwestern's long history. As the University approaches its 100th anniversary in 1984, a twenty-five million building program is changing the face of the 1,000 acre campus.

Northwestern's vast progress is evident in the sprawling physical plant, the modernistic classroom and research facilities, new academic programs, expanded services to the State and community, and unique opportunities for student growth and involvement.

But Northwestern, for nearly a century now, has been recognized not only for its academic excellence and innovative approaches to education, but also for its warmth, charm and historic significance. These qualities have been retained even during a period of unprecedented development.

This University is proud of its students, and the faculty, staff and administration are genuinely concerned about the academic and personal development of the young people who choose to make Northwestern their university home.

Through the years thousands of young people have prepared themselves for worthwhile and meaningful contributions to society at Northwestern, and the University's rich tradition has made a positive lasting impact on their lives.

This yearbook will become a cherished possession of today's students because it will serve for years to rekindle memories of some of the best days and moments in your lives.

The Polpourri is just as its name implies . . . a collection of memories of university life, of a time that will become more meaningful and more treasured in your memories as time passes.

It is our hope that you will recall your years at Northwestern with pride and fondness, and that the University will forever hold a place of importance in your hearts, as it has for thousands before you.

College of Basic Studies and Academic Services

The College of Basic Studies and Academic Services offered a general curriculum program designed to provide maximum study opportunities, and to explore educational and career objectives that were sensitive to individual needs. The foremost educational objective of the College of Basic Studies was to respond to the changing needs of its students as they responded to the changing world. The General Curriculum program provided by the college was designed to assist those students who were still exploring educational and career objectives. The College of Basic Studies offered curricula which lead to Associate and Bachelor of Arts in General Studies degrees.

College of Business

The courses offered by the College of Business were to prepare students to be productive members of the business community. The College of Business also prepared the students for the diverse job opportunities that were available. The demand and need for graduates in the business field was strong.

In addition to the classroom instruction, special seminars on various subjects were offered during the academic year. The Walter Porter Forum was held during the Spring semester of 1980. This was an annual event to bring successful business people to the campus and to the students. The purpose of the event was to put the students in contact with the actual business world.

College of Education

The College of Education was the only college of study that offered academic programs in which the doctorate degree could be obtained. The primary purposes of the College of Education were to prepare well-qualified teachers for the elementary and secondary schools of Louisiana, and to offer services to school systems in a continuous effort to improve the total educational program. The student teachers were assigned to public schools within the 14-parish area served by the University.

Some curricula that prepared students for work in fields other than teaching were: Child Development, Dietetics, Interior Design, Public Librarianship, and Pre-Physical Therapy.

The College of Liberal Arts had the fewest number of students enrolled out of the seven colleges of study at NSU. The College of Liberal Arts included the departments of Art, History, Languages, Military Science, Music, Social Sciences, Sociology and Social Work, and Mass Communication. Other Departments of the University contributed to the liberal arts program by providing course work in their respective areas.

College of Nursing

Recognizing the need for an increasing number of registered nurse practitioners, the College of Nursing in 1972 initiated a program in Shreveport, leading to the associate degree in nursing. Throughout the program, general education and nursing education courses at NSU were combined with patient care experiences in the hospitals and health care agencies of Caddo and Bossier parishes.

The Baccalaureate Program in Nursing was established at NSU in 1949. The purpose of the baccalaureate program was to provide a progression of educational experiences and opportunities which enabled individuals to become responsible, contributing members of their profession and community, and to pursue advanced academic study. The program was four academic years in length and provided a broad educational background in humanities and physical, natural and behavioral sciences.

College of Science and Technology

The College of Science and Technology provided scientific and technological programs allowing students an opportunity to pursue degree programs in the pure and applied sciences. The College offered the students a choice of interesting and challenging fields of study. The variety of curricula provided were in mathematics and computer science, the natural sciences, the health sciences, engineering technology, agricultural sciences, industrial arts, aviation science, forestry, wildlife management and psychology.

The faculty and facilities were excellent. With equipment such as an electron microscope, a nuclear magnetic resonance spectrometer, a variety of lasers and a computer with numerous remote terminals for student use, with facilities such as the 370-acre on-campus experimental farm, a natural history preserve and an outstanding herbarium, and with a 70-member faculty (80% who have earned doctorate degrees) the College was able to offer a stimulating and challenging collegiate education.

Graduate College

The Graduate College, according to Otis Cox, Director of Institutional Research, had the largest number of enrollments as compared to the enrollment in the other college areas. The Graduate College's population was composed of students who had just completed their undergraduate education as well as those who were employed on a full-time basis while they pursued part time studies.

The Graduate College awarded the master's degree in sixty-five different programs, the specialist's degree in eight programs, and the doctoral degree in three programs. The doctoral degree was offered in elementary education, health and physical education, and secondary education.

The Graduate College sought to introduce students to methods of scholarly research, to contribute to increased competency in teaching and school administration, to provide students with a deeper understanding of human knowledge, and to spark the initiative for further independent study and research.

Shreveport Campuses — A Vital Part of NSU

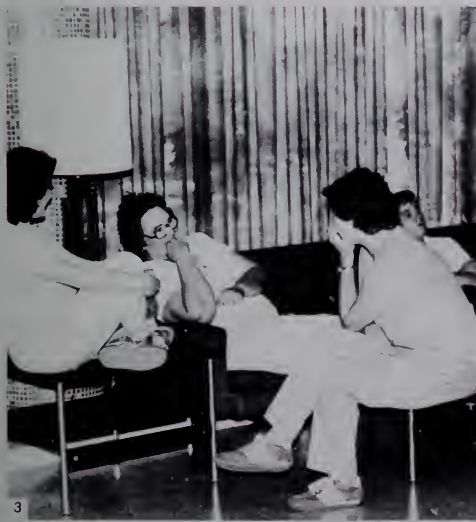

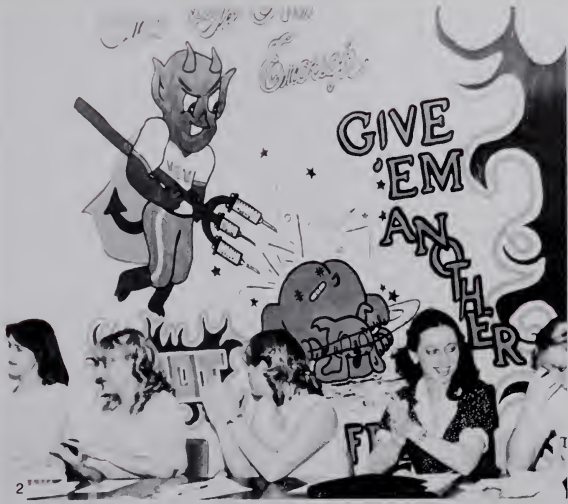

The College of Nursing maintained in Shreveport for nursing students the Shreveport — Warrington Campus for the baccalaureate program and the King's Highway Campus for the associate degree program. For the baccalaureate program, the students completed their freshman and sophomore years on the Natchitoches Campus and their junior and senior years on the Warrington Campus.

The Warrington Campus included two buildings. One building was for the undergraduate program and one building was for the graduate program. The building for the undergraduate program consisted of dormitory rooms, lecture and conference rooms, offices, laboratories, a library, and recreational areas. The graduate building was composed of faculty offices, conference rooms, laboratories and classrooms. The King's Highway Campus had one building. Only the first floor of the King's Highway building was used. Nursing students on the campus used the dorm facilities at Warrington. Laboratory experiences for all nursing students were provided in hospitals and agencies with which the University had contractual agreements.

Eugene P. Watson Memorial Library

The Eugene P. Watson Memorial Library was a 3-story structure which provided comfortable seating for over 1,000 students. The library resources were comprised of some 240,000 books and bound periodicals, more than 2,500 periodical titles, a large U.S. Document Collection, about 200,000 volumes in microform, and several thousand audio-visual items. The building included a Reference Room, Reserve Room, Current Periodicals Reading Room, Media Center, Cammie G. Henry Louisiana Room and Archives, and informal lounge facilities for student and faculty. A branch library was maintained at the NSU College of Nursing at Shreveport.

1. Librarians: Phyllis Brown — Serials Division, Linda Vienne — Reference Division, Robert Allen — Media Division, Eleanor Hollis — Head Reference Division, Leroy Landon — Catalogue Division, Clyde Bostick — Louisiana Reference Librarian, Donald Mackenzie — Library Director, Charles Harrington — Acquisitions Division. 2. ## Center for History of Louisiana Education

Louisiana's educational history — dating back more than two and a half centuries — was colorful and exciting, and the Center for History of Louisiana Education brought that heritage to life in our time and sought to preserve it for generations to come.

A. L. Williams — Head Coach

He was too soft-spoken, too friendly and congenial. He didn't have the typical coach's hobbies, like golf or barhopping. Occasionally, he hunted or fished a little, but usually there was not enough time for that. Heck, the guy didn't even smoke or drink.

Williams had been a success on every level of athletics that he had ever been associated with, dating all the way back to his playing days in high school and college and his outstanding record as a prep coach.

Williams joined the NSU staff prior to the 1974 season and served as offensive coordinator that year before being named head coach immediately after the final game of that season. Five years later, he and his staff were reaping the benefits of five tough years of work, including a brand new athletic complex and a most exciting demon football season.

The 46-year-old Williams received his bachelor's degree from Louisiana Tech in 1957 and his master's degree in 1965. He was married to the former Sarah Sneed of Shreveport and they had two daughters, Amy (17) and Kay (15).

Wayne Yates Takes Over as Head Coach

A highly successful coach in his five seasons as head coach at Memphis State, Wayne Yates took over the Northwestern State program this year with the same goals he had at Memphis — to gain national prominence for the Northwestern basketball program.

Many felt Yates had a tough road ahead after the Demons were 5-20 a year ago, but if anyone knew about immediate success it was Yates. And while admitting it took time to develop a strong program, Yates didn't see any reason why the Demons couldn't start winning this year.

Yates was a strong advocate of up-tempo basketball, using a fast break whenever possible and a full-court pressing defense. For three seasons Yates' teams averaged over 87 points a game. While Yates was the head coach, Memphis State broke 12 MSU scoring records.

When Yates was named the Northwestern coach over a field of 55 applicants, he felt it was an ideal job, a chance to build a program at a Division I school while living in a community that was perfect for Yates and his family. Demon fans were equally assured that Northwestern had hired the ideal coach.

Pat Pierson

Head Coach

In her third year as head coach and coordinator of Women's athletics at her alma mater, Pat Pierson had the talent on hand to improve her career coaching record that was already a good one in the college and high school ranks.

With little experience on hand, Pierson took her first Lady Demon team to a 12-15 record and then followed that last season with a 19-17 mark. Northwestern placed in three different tournaments and survived an eight game losing streak earlier in the year.

Before coming to Northwestern, Pierson had been a five-time All-District selection at Pitkin, being named to the all-state team two years. Pierson was the Most Valuable Player during her junior and senior seasons as a prep and was the valedictorian of her class.

Northwestern State University had ten national fraternities and seven national sororities with houses off and on campus.

The purpose of a Greek organization was to help each individual to become a well-adjusted, mature and intelligent person through the high ideals of the group. In such groups, a person shared friendship and good times. By stressing scholarship, a group helped an individual to get the most out of his college education.

Greek participation in innumerable campus activities encouraged an individual to become a well-rounded person who enjoyed meeting, knowing, and working with people of all interests and backgrounds.

Current Sauce

PURPOSE: to inform students of happenings on campus and to defend students' rights through the power of the Press. NOTE: through the use of investigative reporting and the reporting of controversial issues (such as reports on closed SUGB meetings, faculty arrests, police reports, the Bayou Folk Museum, Inside View and many editorials) the paper became more than a publicity sheet for Northwestern; it reported things as they were.

On January 20, 1981, after 444 days of captivity, the 52 Americans who were held hostage in Iran were released. This page is dedicated to them and to the courage they displayed throughout their ordeal. Welcome home.

Well, this is it . . . The last page of the 1981 Polpourri has just been completed, and I'm getting my last chance to say everything that's on my mind. This year has taught me more than I could have imagined, not just about planning pages, cropping pictures, and drawing layouts, but about people.

If there is one thing I can truly compliment myself on, it is my ability to choose a staff. The people that I have worked with during the past year are my best friends in the world, and I love each one dearly. Mr. Adams, I don't know how you put up with this crazy bunch of kids, but you did, and I thank you for your confidence. Sherri, you gave me the encouragement I needed when the job seemed to be too much for me. Sandra, you never let me take myself too seriously. Michele, you were always there, never saying much, but getting your work done without ever seeming to get caught up in the rush and worry of yearbook work. Jim, you always knew when something was bothering me, no matter how hard I tried to hide it, and telling you about it always made me feel better. Russell, not Rascal, thank you for your enthusiasm that always came through, even in those "I Don't Care" times. Ed, you were always so understanding and willing to listen to me whenever I was feeling low. Chirre, Noni, Julie, and Darlene, thanks for the work you did to help make this the great book I believe it is.

I want to thank my family for putting up with my constant talk about what was going on in the office. I've placed more importance on this book than I have on anything else I've done in my life, and I hope you'll feel the same pride in it that I do.

I wish the best of luck to the Editor of next year's Polpourri, and I hope that working in that position brings that person as much satisfaction as it has me. I hate to think about leaving the staff, but I'm leaving on a high. Things couldn't get any better than they were this year. Once again, thanks to my staff. I love you!
